“Hey Gul Pana, where are you going?”
Fatema asked.

“I have to work now,” she answered.

“Work! You have a job?” Fatema asked.

“Well, I don’t get paid. I volunteer.”

“Oh, where do you do that?”

Work!
You have a job?

“At the Food Bank.” replied Gul Pana.
“The Food Bank? I know what a bank is but what is a Food Bank?” asked Fatema.

“It’s a place where people can go to get food when they need help.” explained Gul Pana.

“Hmmm... I still don’t understand why they call it a Food Bank,” said Fatema.
Gul Pana said, “Let me tell you more about the Food Bank and then you will understand.”

Gul Pana explained, "All the food at the Food Bank is donated. People buy food and give it to the Food Bank."

"Do you mean like the Food Drive we had at school when we collected cans of food?" asked Fatema.

"Yes, all that food came here to the Food Bank." said Gul Pana.

"Volunteers organize all the food onto the shelves in the back."

Once a month, people can come in to get the food they need.

Look here. They have a list like this, and they put a check mark beside the food they need.” explained Gul Pana.

“Then, volunteers will go and get the food from the shelves, put it in a box, and give it to the people to take home.”

“Do they have to pay for the food?” asked Fatema.

“No, it’s free,” replied Gul Pana.

“So, is the food bank only for newcomers to Canada?” asked Fatema.

“No,” answered Gul Pana. “Lots of different people go there. Some people come every month and some people only come once.”

Gul Pana continued, “Often families can get more than just food. They can get toys, books, clothes, and shoes. Gift cards, too!”

"Hey, that's a great way I can help my family. I'll tell them about it when I get home," said Fatema.

"Now, do you see why they call it a Food Bank?" asked Gul Pana.

"I think so," said Fatema. "It's a place where something important is kept and people take it out when it is needed," she explained.

"Thanks for telling me about the Food Bank, Gul Pana," said Fatema.

"No problem. You can come with me to volunteer sometime but right now I have to go. I don't want to be late. See you tomorrow."

"See you," said Fatema.

Building Financial Knowledge

Communities provide special services for people who encounter financial difficulties. One of these services is the food bank. A food bank provides emergency food assistance and programs for people who may go hungry. It is a charitable organization run mostly by volunteers and is dependent on food donations made by the community.
